125 Years of Caring

In the summer of 1888, at the corner of 8th and Pacific in Tacoma, an intoxicated logger was seen kicking a bear cub, trying to get it to perform. Fortunately, the Justice of the Peace was summoned, the bear was rescued, and the logger received nineteen days of hard labor. The incident motivated city leaders to address the issue of animal welfare, and a few months later, the Tacoma Humane Society was born – the first Humane Society in the state, and only the fourth in the nation.

In the 125 years since, the Tacoma Humane Society has evolved, responding to the changing needs of animals. From protecting children and draft horses, to advocating for domestic pets and homeless strays, to tackling pet overpopulation, the Tacoma Humane Society has grown to be one of the most progressive and innovative animal welfare organizations in the country.

The 1888 articles of incorporation list the purpose of the Tacoma Humane Society as “Promoting humanity and kindness and prevent-

Curley Found!

Patricia was devastated when her Lab mix, Curley, went missing in early November. She was out of town when a caretaker left the door open and he wandered away, most likely looking for her. Patricia posted flyers and visited the shelter often. A month went by, and there was still no sign of Curley. Two months went by, and Patricia was still checking the shelter. Ryan, an Animal Care Technician at Humane Society, would often help her, and encourage her to keep searching.

Then one day in January, a young woman named Darcie saw a dog sleeping in a field across from her house. When she saw how emaciated he was, she was appalled. He was too weak to move, so she wrapped him in a blanket and sat with him for over an hour, feeding him bits of chicken. When her mother came home, they carried him into the house. The next day, she brought him to the shelter.

As soon as they walked through the door, Ryan knew the yellow lab mix had to be Curley. The photo on his flyer showed a plump, happy dog with a sleek coat, and this dog was skeletal, dejected, and was found miles from Patricia's home.

But he knew. It had to be her missing friend. A microchip scan confirmed that he was right, and ten minutes later, Patricia was at the shelter, crying and being slathered in kisses from the overjoyed Curley. The staff, too, was in tears. Watching the reunion, Ryan turned to Darcie and said, "This is why we do what we do...this right here."

Curley and Patricia were reunited after more than two months.

ing cruelty to both man and the lower animal." Today, the mission remains much the same: advancing the welfare of animals and promoting positive relationships between animals and people. The methods may have changed, but the primary focus remains: helping animals.

Plans are underway for special celebrations throughout the year, including a special 125th anniversary luncheon on October 10. Visit our website for updates as they become available: www.thehumaneociety.org. We hope to see you there!

Pets for Life

For families facing stress and hardship, a pet can be a lifeline – a stable source of comfort and affection. Children, especially, benefit from these special relationships. That is why it is heart-breaking when a family has to give up a beloved pet because they lack the resources they need. The Humane Society has always worked to support pet owners and keep pets in loving homes where they belong. Recently, however, we had the chance to make a real impact with a new program called “Pets for Life.”

Hundreds of grateful pet owners stood in line for hours to receive free vaccines, pet supplies and spay/neuter appointments at the Humane Society's first Pets for Life vaccine clinic.

Pets for Life was developed by the Humane Society for the United States and PetSmart Charities to build ongoing relationships between animal welfare organizations and pet owners in under-served neighborhoods. The Humane Society for Tacoma & Pierce County was one of just ten shelters in the nation chosen to receive funding to launch this innovative program. It has quickly taken off.

Neighborhoods in the 98404 zip code were chosen as the first focus area. Volunteers canvass the neighborhood, asking about pets in need, working to find solutions, offering support and advice, and providing basic supplies when needed. A free vaccine clinic was held in December, where 351 pets were vaccinated and 121 pets received appointments for spay or neuter surgery.

But volunteers are not just talking with pet owners, they are working with community leaders, faith-based groups, neighborhood organizations and businesses to ensure that improvements come from within the community, so that they are sustainable and lasting.

This program helps families be successful pet owners, keeps more pets out of the shelter, strengthens communities, and improves the quality of life for pets and people alike.

Weebles

When Weebles came to us, he'd been living rough for awhile, and had a fractured leg that had healed badly. But even though he was in a lot of pain, he was always sweet and cuddly. Weebles had surgery to remove his fused limb, and the next day he was showing his gratitude with non-stop purring. When Don and Janet came to the shelter looking for a pet, they fell in love with Weebles. They didn't even notice he was missing a leg at first – and they didn't care. His personality won them over!

Message from the Board of Directors

We hope you will enjoy the 2012 Annual Report, and join with us in celebrating our successes and rejoicing in the thousands of animals helped through Humane Society programs. For decades, the primary goal of the Humane Society has been to eliminate the euthanasia of adoptable pets. We reached that goal a few years ago for dogs, and we are on to reach zero euthanasia with cats as well. Last year, 464 cats were euthanized for lack of a home. While that is an appalling number, it is half of what it was in 2011. We know we are on the brink of reaching zero euthanasia of adoptable pets – for good. And, we will do it with your help.

It is only because of you that we are able to help thousands of animals find loving homes or reunite them with their owners. Your generosity, loyalty, and support have resulted in many, many happy endings.

I hope as you read about the numbers of animals adopted, reunited, fostered, and cared for, you will be proud of the essential role you play. None of this can happen without you.

Thank you so much for giving homeless animals the chance they need, and helping to create a compassionate community for animals and people.

Chris Marston and shelter pet "Ginger".

President, Board of Directors

The Humane Society's Walk for Homeless Pets

Saturday, July 20 – Fort Steilacoom Park

Raise pledges to benefit homeless animals, and join your friends for the best dog event in the Northwest! More information at:

Message from the Executive Director

Pets are family – they live with us, love us, appear in our family portraits, and are featured in our most cherished memories. They ease loneliness, reduce stress, improve our self esteem and make us laugh. When I talk to adopters weeks or even years later, they often say “I had no idea how much fun a cat would be” or “I got this dog for my kids, but he’s become my best friend.”

Pets are a vital part of the human experience. That is why we advocate for homeless animals, encourage people to adopt from the Humane Society, and work to ensure that pet owners have the support they need. That is why we strive to provide the best possible care for animals at our shelter, and an adoption experience that is easy, rewarding and fun. That is why we offer low cost spay & neuter and an emergency food bank, to help pet owners keep their four legged Kathleen Olson and “Jack”. When Jack came to the shelter, he was thin and exhausted, with a badly damaged eye. He received immediate medical treatment, lots of TLC, and later, surgery to remove his injured eye. He soon recovered, and his affectionate, playful personality began to emerge. It wasn’t long before Jack won the hearts of a loving family, who will care for him forever.

The Humane Society has changed greatly in 125 years, especially in the past five years. We have seen a dramatic decrease in pet overpopulation along with improved care and resources for pets and their owners. We are proud to have been part of this amazing transformation, and know that it would not have happened without you, our loyal and dedicated donors and supporters. You have been with the Humane Society through many transformations, struggles, and triumphs and we thank you for helping to create the changes we see today. Thank you for continuing to support our work to improve the lives of pets and their owners.

Kathleen Olson
Executive Director

With gratitude, we also thank the generous individuals who contributed at the "Members" giving level in 2012. In addition, we thank all those who supported the Society by participating in Dog-A-Thon 2012, donated a vehicle, participated in workplace giving programs, gave something extra in donation boxes, or donated pet food and supplies to the shelter. On behalf of our board of directors, staff, volunteers, and the animals in our care, the Humane Society thanks you!

Mission

The Mission of the Humane Society is to advance the welfare of animals and promote positive relationships between animals and people.

Vision

The Humane Society envisions a community where every pet has a permanent and loving home, every companion animal is spayed or neutered and all pets are treated with respect and compassion.

The Humane Society is a private, non-profit organization that relies on donations to fund its vital programs. The Humane Society is not associated with any government agency, nor is it affiliated with any national animal welfare organization.
